Scuba divers continued to search the area where the first body and the car were discovered, and shortly after 7 p.m. the second body was found. The victim was identified as 18-year-old Steven R. Minerd, the owner of the car. The body was found nearly 50 feet from the car and was snagged on un-

Sheriff Radcliff believes the car was traveling on Ohio 1, an access road behind the Harding Cabin, and went off the boat ramp. However, no exact time of the mishap has been determined.

The Pickaway County Sheriff's Department contacted the two victims relatives in Columbus after the bodies were found. Minerd was last seen Wednesday morning and Starr hadn't been seen since Friday morning.

There were rumors that Starr had suffered a gunshot would, but Pickaway County Coroner Dr. Ray Carroll found no such evidence following a preliminary atuopsy. In fact, Dr. Carroll found no signs of foul play and Sheriff Radcliff has tentatively listed the incident as a twoperson traffic fatality.

The bodies were sent to the Hamilton County Coroner to determine the exact cause of death. That autopsy was scheduled to take place Monday morning, but no reports on findings have been received.

Fayette County Sheriff Donald L. Thompson and a deputy reported to the scene after the first body was found floating on the lake. However, the incident occurred in Pickaway County and the investigation was left with Sheriff Radcliff's department.

payments outstripped taxes paid into the system by wage-earners and their employers.

Because of this, administration officials reportedly favor a two-pronged attack to insure the viability of the Social Security program in the next

Social Security trust funds are financed by a deduction marked "FICA" on nearly every wage-earner's paycheck. FICA stands for Federal Insurance Contributions Act, the original Social Security law.

Administration sources say Congress will be asked to change the Social Security law so employers would have to pay the retirement tax on all wages they pay their workers, not just on a portion, as they do now.

And, under the administration plan, tax-supported general revenue funds will be used for the first time for Social Security payments when the national unemployment rate goes beyond 6 per cent. Officials say that when unemployment rises beyond a certain level, contributions to Social Security decline by too much.

Under the current system of collecting Social Security taxes, wageearners have 5.85 per cent of the first $16,500 of their income deducted for Social Security. This is matched by

Under the Carter plan, employers would have to pay Social Security taxes on all wages paid out, while the contributions by wage-earners would be increased, but not to 100 per cent of their income.

Presently, a wage-earner paying the "FICA" maximum tax on income of $16,500 pays about $965 a year.

The administration wants to raise the $16,500 wage base by another $2,400 by 1985, beyond increases already scheduled. Those increases would be accelerated flies to Geneva today to meet Syrian what was regarded as a concession, restraining international arms sales with America's major allies to maintain the momentum of economic growth, try to keep trade free and make a joint study of ways to produce cheaper nuclear energy without producing raw materials for nuclear weapons.

Carter said his meetings with Assad and other Arab and Israeli leaders would put him "in a better condition to judge the areas of agreement ... and disagreement."

Secretary of State Cyrus Vance said the Syrian leader's views "are going to be exceedingly important" in the formulation of the Carter administration's "final views" about what it can do to promote an Arab-Israeli peace settlement.

Geneva was chosen as neutral ground for the meeting after the 47year-old Syrian refused to go to Washington to outline his views on how peace with Israel could be achieved. Carter has already met in Washington with Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and King Hussein of Jordan, and meets there later this month with Crown Prince Fahd of Saudi Arabia.

Assad has repeatedly insisted that Israel must give up all the Arab territory it occupied in the 1967 war, and Israel is just as determined to hold on to some of the Golan Heights territory it seized from Syria, along willing to discuss demilitarized zones between Israel and its Arab neighbors.

Before leaving London today, Carter was meeting with French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing of France and then was discussing Berlin at a meeting of the occupation powers Carter, Giscard d'Estaing and British Prime Minister James Callaghan with West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt. ### Patty Hearst sentenced

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Six months after her release on $1.25 million bail and almost three years since she surfaced here as "Tania" with machine gun in hand, Patricia Hearst faced possible return to prison.

Miss Hearst was scheduled to be sentenced today on assault and robbery charges for firing two machine guns at Mel's Sporting Goods store in suburban Inglewood on May 16, 1974, to provide cover for escaping Symbionese Liberation Army "comrades," William and Emily Harris.

The convict heiress, a kidnap victim joined forces with her revolutionary abductors in 1974, pleaded no contest April 18 to charges. The judge noted that this was tantamount to a plea of guilty.

The potential sentence for the 23year-old newspaper heiress ranged from as little as straight probation to as much as 151/2 years to life in prison.

'We are going to ask for leniency and understanding from the court," said her Boston attorney, Al Johnson.
It was believed that a probation report submitted to the judge last week recommended a light sentence or probation, and the district attorney's office has stressed that the judge has wide discretion in setting a penalty.

probation would Even necessarily mean freedom, since Miss Hearst is under a seven-year prison sentence for robbing a San Francisco bank. She was freed on bail pending appeal of that conviction, and the 9th U.S. District Court of Appeals is expected to rule soon in that case.

Summer job pinch expected

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Youngsters looking for summer jobs this year will find the labor market tougher than ever and their chances of success perhaps hinging on a combination of planning and old-fashioned

The U.S. Department of Labor estimates that two and a half million young people between the ages of 16 and 24 went hunting for summer jobs last year. The department hasn't issued a firm estimate for 1977, but a spokesman said he expects the number of job seekers to match last year's Herman Fishman of the Youth Services Bureau of the New York State Department of Labor said the summer job situation has gotten progressively worse every year and added that 1977 probably would be "a little more difficult than last year.

He said his office alone had requests from 20,000 youngsters looking for summer jobs last year and was able to help less than 10 per cent of them. This year, he said, he expects more job seekers and fewer positions. Fishman said there is no area where the demand for summer workers is bigger than the supply. "Getting a summer job is largely a luck situation," he said.

Both he and a federal spokesman agreed, however, that advance planning can increase your chance of success. "If you're just starting now, it's probably too late," said a spokesman at the U.S. Department of

One of the first things you should know is what you can - and can't - do. Federal law limits employment for youngsters and state laws may require work permits below a certain age level. When state and federal laws conflict, the one that provides the most protection applies.

Budget hearings set in Assembly

COLUMBUS. Ohio (AP) - Budget hearings get under way tonight in the Senate where majority Democrats could wind up doing what House Republicans tried to do- put some more money into the two-year spending measure.

Senate Majority Leader Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron, says he would like to see about $45 million or $50 million added to the outlay for primary and secondary education.

Finance Chairman Harry Meshel, D-33 Youngstown, said he also expects to feel pressure to restore about $30 million to the higher education budget.

House Democrats, who approved the $11.8 billion appropriation bill 71-26 last Wednesday, took $30 million from the amount GOP Gov. James A. Rhodes had recommended for the universities. Minority Republicans offered a series of unsuccessful floor amendments last week to put back most of the higher education funds, and also sought to restore funds in other areas to levels proposed by Rhodes. They were voted down mostly along party lines. House Democrats, all told, slashed nearly $100 million from the Rhodes budget, but pointed out that even then, most agencies are getting substantial increases from their current appropriations, in no case less than 10 per

The budget is almost certain to wind up in a Senate-House conference committee, probably in the latter part of June after Meshel's committee has had time to hear testimony and review the 87 pages of small print and numbers comprising the proposal.

Members of the House Finance Committee, meanwhile, will go to work Tuesday on some of the bills the House budget funded. These include measures establishing geriatric instruction programs in state medical schools and program for displaced homemakers, along with a state commission to improve the plight of the state's disadvantaged children.

Other major proposals being heard this week include a House-approved bill providing for the tandem election of the lieutenant governor and governor. It will be discussed in the House Governmental Affairs Committee on Wednesday night

Panama Canal talks resume

Canal treaty talks are resuming here following sharp Panamanian threats and accusations that the United States

Panamanian negotiator Romulo Escobar Betancourt and his team arrived here Sunday for talks with U.S. negotiators Sol Linowitz and Ellsworth Bunker.

The new round of meetings will be held following threatening talk from Panamanian strongman Gen. Omar

In a Mexican news conference over he weekend, Torrijos was quoted as warning that if a new accord to replace the original canal treaty of 1903 is not completed, Americans in Panama will "without water, without lights, without a canal and without gringos."

Keeping with what seems to be one of the most secretive operations in American foreign policy, U.S. officials had no comment. The Carter administration has steadfastly refused significant comment on any aspect of the treaty talks.

The new round of talks is the 15th extension of discussions stretching

Since the last round of talks ended in February, Torrijos and Escobar have made several angry statements about U.S. tactics.

Escobar, for instance, has said the U.S. negotiators quibble over every house and street to be given up, even though Panama has surrendered to several American demands.

Torrijos' major complaint deals with what he sees as President Carter's lack of commitment to completing the talks. 'We have to have a definition from the government of Mr. Carter during this new round of negotiations," he said in Mexico.

When asked what he expects from the new talks, Torrijos expressed hope, but then voiced his threat about isolating

Congressmen facing U.S. spending target

WASHINGTON (AP) - A House and Senate conference committee, divided on the issue of defense spending, may be near agreement on a compromise resolution that will establish a congressional target for federal spending for the 1978 fiscal year.

The Senate plans debate this week on proposals to make its anti-filibuster rule more effective. And President Carter's energy program and economic stimulus measures are among other matters on which Congress will be focusing its attention this week.

Senate-House conference committee hoped to reach agreement later today on the compromise budget resolution, which will set spending and revenue targets for the fiscal year

One key difference between House and Senate spending plans is over defense. The Senate approved spending $111.6 billion, which is $300 million less than Carter asked, but the House cut its defense figure to $109.9 billion

Over-all, the Senate resolution projects a $63.5 billion deficit for 1978, computer will not only carry information on books at the Carnegie Public Library, but also on books in other libraries throughout the central Ohio area. If a book is not available here, but can be obtained from another library, it will be ordered from the other library and should be in the mail to the patron the next day.

THE MEMBERSHIP drive format initiated this year depends entirely on participation by each Chamber member. While no member is being asked to call on more than two prospects, every member must make two calls for the drive to be successful.

Polk said one of the advantages of the new format is the contact between members. The "assignments" have not been made so that members are calling on friends, but rather were randomly selected. Many persons will be contacting firms with which they have had little or no prior contact

'In this way, the membership drive helps area businessmen to get to know each other better," Polk said. He cited Malek's call as an example. While the library director was learning about the Chamber and its programs, the Chamber executive learned about the programs underway at the library. The exchange of information and increased awareness of each other's programs was beneficial to both organizations,

By limiting each member to just two calls, the new format gives Chamber members the opportunity to meet with each other for in-depth discussions without placing an excessive burden on any one individual.

"Personal contact is the key to success in the drive," Polk concluded. 'Only through a personal commitment by each member, resulting in personal contact with other members and prospects can we really explain why Chamber membership is an important investment in the future of one's business and community," he said.

while the House figure is $66.3 billion. Meanwhile, the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee appeared to be ready to approve President Carter's proposal to create a Cabinet-level Department of Energy. The committee's proposal is expected to provide for a sharing of power over natural gas and oil prices between the department secretary and a threemember regulatory board.

Under this compromise plan, worked out by senior committee members and the White House, the President would have the final say over price decisions if the energy secretary and the board

LOS ANGELES (AP) - It's rummored Hugh Hefner fools around with women, stays up late and parties a bit here at his 30-room, $1 million mansion that sports a swimming pool with a heated "woo grotto." Inasmuch as he's now 51, it seemed appropriate to ask when he'll stop all this high living and settle down.

'Ahhh, when I die, I guess," grinned the man who in 1954 took $3,600, started a magazine called Playboy and turned it into an entertainment empire worth by his estimate, around $200 million.

The purpose of his powow with a reporter was his coming late-night TV show, "Playboy's Playmate" party, coming Thursday on ABC. It's a 90minute house party of sorts taped at his digs last month.

Among other things, it will tell the nation which one of 12 centerfold ladies - the damsels with staples in their navels - of the past year will get the utlimate accolade, "Playmate of the

As it would be adult fare, he added, he'd aim it at the 11:30 p.m. trade, an hour earlier in the Midwest, and "try and do in the electronic medium what we did in the '50s in print.'

He also talked about a non-TV idea he's kicking around — a women's magazine that would be the distaff counterpart of Playboy. He was asked about Viva, a magazine that seems to be trying that.

Hefner said he thought that publication's original notion "as it was expressed, is a very interesting one, and it never happened ... they were trying to find the erotic equivalent (of Playboy) for women, and they never

Slipup brings huge tax bill

SEATTLE (AP) - John Eli Kovich was naturally concerned when he received a letter from the Internal Revenue Service informing him his 1976 income tax was $109,929.89.

The income tax bill was more than 100 times larger than Kovich's earnings of $1,848.08 as a dishwasher last year. Kovich had figured the government owed him the $213.71 it withheld from

After Kovich mailed a letter to the IRS, spokesman John Aguirre did some quick checking.

'What happened was that when he filed his return, he put his entire $1,849.08 income in the dollar column,' Aguirre said, discussing the return with Kovich's permission.

'When we got it, somebody put in two zeros in the cents column, which is what we normally do if a taxpayer has rounded off the amount, gave him the standard deduction and any other benefits allowed under the law, and figured out his income tax.

'Of course, we botched it. Somebody should have figured that someone with an income of almost $185,000 probably would take more than the standard deduction," said Aguirre.

Health care center realized

PIQUA, Ohio (AP) — A 43-year-old dream comes true Sunday when the Miami County Health Care Center is dedicated adjacent to Dettmer General Hospital. It is an unusual marriage of private and public effort to serve the elderly. The county provided the building and the hospital, supported by private donations and a permanent county tax, will provide administration for the new county home for the aged.

The will of Jacob G. Dettmer, who died in 1934, bequeathed $1.2 million for such a facility after his two children died. The money became available in the 1940s and Dettmer Hospital opened County officials bought 10 acres of land from the Dettmer estate and last year began collecting a five-year levy that will produce $1.6 million which financed construction of the facility.

The health center has 150 beds and 60 residents of the old county home were to move in Monday.

Opinion And Comment

A look at all the information

Intensive efforts have been made the discredit Assassinations Committee and cast doubt on the prospects for its getting any closer to the truth about the murders of President Kennedy and Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. In spite of this, the Committee's budget has been approved and the investigation continues

That is good. Granted that there are pitfalls before the Committee. and no assurance of success, the public interest is best served by the decision to proceed. For as Rep. John Dent said, "We must put to rest the surmises, surprises, guesses and wishes of those who want to keep the kettle boiling.

This could not satisfactorily be done by relying on the Department of Justice to conduct a new investigation, as some opponents of the House effort suggested. The Federal Bureau of Investigation is an arm of the Justice Department, and questions have been raised about its part in earlier inquiries. Because of this, lingering doubts might remain even though the FBI were in fact to conduct a wholly fair and thoroughgoing investigation.

Every so often there is a fresh hint that information may have been withheld from the Warren Commission, or that it may not have pursued certain implications. An instance of this is the Dallas Morning News' story about a letter from Lee Harvey Oswald to the Internal Revenue Service, less than a month before the Kennedy assassination, in which Oswald said he planned to quit his job at the Texas School Book Repository and sought tax advice. According to the Dallas paper, the Warren Commission did not at any time indicate that it knew of this Disturbing questions are raised by this disclosure, as by others that have surfaced from time to time. It important for the House letter, which was not entered into the record until 1966.

Assassinations Committee to look into all such questions and reach conclusions on the basis of all the information that may now be unearthed.

Valery Giscard d'Estaing in France and Helmit Schmidt in Germany are on such uncertain ground at home that they hope a summit can resolve some of their uncertainties. At least it will show them in a blaze of publicity championing their own national in-

With the favorable reception given his energy program in Europe, where American conservation of oil and other basic resources was seen as long overdue, Carter will be at a distinct advantage. He is preparing to say at the NATO meeting in London following the economic parley that the United States is prepared to put an additional $600 million in one form or another into the NATO structure.

Preparation for the summit has been exceptionally thorough under the direction of Henry Owen, a former foreign service officer drafted for the White House assignment from a stint at the Brookings Institution. Moreover, Secretary of State Cyrus Vance has taken an active part in readying the briefing papers that will guide the president in the talks.

Less spectacular predecessor, Henry Kissinger, Vance has proved in this three months in office his industry and his broad and careful knowledge of the whole field of foreign policy. Those present at the recent SALT talks in Moscow were impressed by the range of his knowledge. Kissinger was strong on what virtually interested him, but outside concentrated areas he let subordinates carry the burden.

The sticking point at the London summit is likely to be one on which Carter puts the first importance. That is nuclear proliferation, with the growing threat not only of the spread of weapons material but conflict with allies bent on their own independent

West Germany's undertaking to sell a complete nuclear fuel process to Brazil has been opposed by the United tates on the ground of proliferation. This has been deeply resented and it will, in all probability, figure in the London talks. Recycling under such a process would provide ample weapons grade material.

In France feelings are equally strong about America's "monopoly" in the nuclear field with the drive for nonproliferation seem as an attempt to hold this monopoly, France had at one time considered selling a nuclear fuel cycle to Pakistan. The rioting currently putting Ali Bhutto's government in the gravest jeopardy points up the perils of exposing the ultimate weapon to the overthrow by violence of what might have seemed a stable order.

Despite a strong stand by Carter, speculation on the outcome of the nuclear pase of the summit is for a final communique that will say the subject of proliferation was thoroughly explored to the gain of all concerned.

This would leave the whole ticklish matter just about where it is today. On the optimistic side the powers, France, Germany and Britain, that have a nuclear capability, might agree to eventual internationalization of the whole nuclear bundle with stronger safeguards than those enforced by the International Atomic Energy Agency.

After the summit and the NATO meeting, Carter and Vance will go to Geneva to meet with Haffez Assad of Syria. Assad is expected to convey the same gloomy outlook that King Hussein of Jordan brought to Washington for a meeting with Carter. Vance looks at the Middle East with a realism that can't hardly be called detached, since he is fearful that if no peace settlement can be arrived at within six months to a year, the odds are for another Middle East war.

that his schedule looks like an airline timetable, Vance will go back to Geneva for three or four days of discussion with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko on an eventual agreed limitation on offensive nuclear weapons. ### Businessmen facing plant arson charges

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (AP) Superior Court arrest warrants were issued today for Ohio millionaire D. Moeller and two businessmen in connection with the arson destruction of a Shelton factory in 1975.

Moeller, chief owner of the Sponge Rubber Products plant, Lowell Powell and Michael Festa will be charged with two counts each of arson conspiracy, according to warrants issued by Judge Irving D. Levine.

Moeller is president of Ohio Decorative Products of Spencerville, Ohio, and Powell is treasurer. Both live in nearby Cridersville. Festa, a business associate of Moeller, lives in Hudson, Ohio.

Bail was set at $75,000 for each. The charges stem from the $12 million explosion and fire that destroyed the huge Plant 4 of Sponge Rubber Products in Shelton on March 1, 1975, leaving hundreds of employes out of work. The FBI said it was the biggest arson case the federal agency ever investigated.

Ohio Decorative Products owns Grand Sheet Metal of Melrose Park, Ill.,parent firm of Sponge Rubber

Moeller was acquitted of similar conspiracy charges in a four-month federal trial in New Haven that ended in January 1976.

Powell testified in that trial but was not a defendant.

The warrants resulted from recent grand jury testimony by the Rev. David N. Bubar of Memphis, Tenn., the Ansonia Sentinel reported today. He was Moeller's former spiritual and psychic consultant.

Bubar was convicted with five Pennsylvania men of federal conspiracy counts and is now serving a 20year prison term.

Bubar refused to testify during his trial because of "confidentiality between a parishioner and his minister."

After spending nine months in an Atlanta penitentiary, he gave more information to Connecticut authorities.

Bubar, now in the New Haven state jail, has agreed to plead guilty to pending state charges and to testify against Moeller, Powell and Festa in return for a lesser state sentence, the Sentinel said.

Carter energy program omits auto problems

By WALTER R. MEARS AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) - At five o'clock on any week night, President Carter's energy planners can look out of their office windows at part of the problem they're trying to solve.

It's right there. Bumper to bumper, home-bound commuters inch along at peak inefficiency, burning much of their gasoline at a standstill.

That happens twice a day in every major city. Yet there is nothing in the Carter energy conservation program that seeks to entice people out of their automobiles and onto a bus or a sub-

The omission is the more puzzling because the administration's energy study illustrates the savings that could

Transportation consumes about 26 per cent of the nation's energy, and about half of that is used by automobiles. If 40 per cent of U.S. commuters carried one additional passenger in their cars each day, it would save 2.5 per cent of total American oil consumption.

"In the long run, mass transit by bus and rail must play a significant role in reducing energy consumption in the transportation sector," the energy policy paper says. "Reliable, inexpensive mass transit is needed to serve existing, spread-out metropolitan areas.

That is a goal. At this point, there is no proposal to go with it.

In his energy address, Carter said the nation must not continue to drift along, with three-quarters of its cars carrying only the driver "while our public transportation system continues to

Carter said later that he thinks "there will be a substantial shift toward increasing use of the public transportation systems, rapid transit, as the price of the gas for automobiles goes up and as the price of fuel goes

But increasing prices is the punitive side of the program; what is lacking is an effort to promote more efficient mass transportation by making it an attractive alternative to the automobile

Transportation Secretary Brock Adams is beginning work now on a mass transportation proposal to be

Seek slaying suspects

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - One of three men being investigated in the shooting death of a wealthy widow told police Sunday that he and two companions stole $817,000 from the millionaire recluse in January, published reports said today.

The Indianapolis Star also quoted a detective as saying another of the three moved his entire family "lock, stock and barrel" Saturday without leaving a forwarding address, detectives said.

The body of the woman, 66-year-old Marjorie V. Jackson, was found early Saturday by firemen responding to a report of a fire at her home. Authorities also discovered more than $5 million in cash concealed in various places about the cluttered, ranch-style estate.

Lt. Robert W, Kirkman emphasized that the theft admission was made orally, during an interview. No formal confession was signed, he said.

Kirkman withheld the names of the suspects, saying he would confer with Marion County Prosecutor James F. Kelley before deciding whether to seek charges against any of them.

Roses, and Other Things

By Howard Knutson (Rosey)

Appearance of silvery-appearing trails in the yard or garden herald appearance of the slug-a creature resembling a snail without a shell. These normally are active at night and hide during the day, unless the day is very cloudy and overcast. We have had tremendous increase in slug population the past few years, because of the mild winters; this year we should see a decrease, since the winter was so severe; however, I found some slugs out the first week of April this year, so they are still going to be with us. Often, the only sign of their presence will be skeletonizing of plant leaves-all of the green matter eaten away, leaving only the veins to die and turn brown. One way to locate them is to place a piece of wood over a dampened soil, leave it overnight, and lift it sometime the next afternoon; slugs will be attracted to the cooler, damp area, and you can see them when you pick up the board.

The body of the slug is extremely high in water content, which is partially responsible for the silvery trail it leaves behind-the insect actually travels on a film of mucus, which is left behind to dry. This is the reason you don't find them out in strong, hot sunthey would dehydrate. Anything which will draw moisture out of the body will kill the slug, which explains the use of dry granular fertilizer or of dry wood ash as a control. A container of stale beer, partially buried, with the lip of the container just below ground level will prove effective, if you don't have a dog which will drink up the beer before the slugs can be attracted. One of the classic chemical treatments has been use of metaldhyde, but there is a newer and more effective material, which has been generally available for about the last two or three years, which seems to be the best control at present: measurol, found as an ingredient in many slug-control products. It has been my experience, in using the granular form, that just two applications for an entire season proved effective.

In the past, I've noticed that gardening columns usually wait until the damage is done, then tell you what you should have done; what I have attempted is to let you know now what you can do to prevent problems in the later months. Most of the products I have mentioned are available locally, from a number of sources; a few may be difficult to find, and may even have

Church music from 20 parishes of the Diocese of southern Ohio rehearsed all day, under the leadership of district Boston musician and composer Daniel Pinkham who teaches at the New England Conservatory and serves as music director at the historic Kings Chapel church. At 4 o'clock the assembly sang a service of Choral Evensong, which included two hymns and seven anthems. Among them were works by Ralph Vaughan Williams. Allen Hovhanness, Lee Hoiby, Randall Thompson and Mr. Pinkham. A leader in this program of encouraging choral singing in every church is the Rev. Mr. Raymond Sturm, Diocesan Music Chairman.

Dana Andrews talks on alcohol

SAN DIEGO (AP) - Actor Dana Andrews, admitting he is an alcoholic, says young people need to be told about alcohol and how they can lose control over it quickly.

A young person "can go from hard drugs to alcohol in six months and become an alcoholic — a person who can't control his drinking," he said.

"The number of teen-age alcoholics is shocking. Teen-agers are getting away from some of the drugs they used in the '60s and turning to alcohol, which is another drug," he said during an interview after a speech to the Boys' Clubs of America.

Andrews, 68, said he was able to discipline himself during his acting career because he "had too much respect for the profession."

College has big impact on city economy

WILMINGTON, Ohio - A small college can have a big economic impact on the community in which it is located, according to a Wilmington College economist

Charles Palmer, assistant professor of economics and administration at Wilmington College, has released the findings of a poll he recently conducted on campus.

It shows that students at the college spend over $500,000 a year in Clinton County, in which the college is located. And in total, Palmer estimates that Wilmington College generates between $11 and $12 million a year in the com-

'This is an impressive figure for a college with an enrollment of less than 700," Palmer said.

Palmer sampled the Wilmington College student body by means of a questionnaire. Twenty-five per cent of the students participated in the sample.

The poll shows that during the 33week period that maked up the regular academic year, the average Wilmington College student spends average $17.09 per week in Clinton County for such things as gasoline, good, entertainment, personal care, and

In addition, more than 160 students rent apartments and pay rent.

Much of this money which is spent in Clinton County comes from outside the

the make-up of the entire student body. 'We received replies from about onefourth who live at home, one-fourth who live in Wilmington apartments, and one-fourth who live in dormitories."

Palmer said that the students who live in dormitories on campus spend an average of $15.19 per week in Clinton County; those who rent in the county spend an average of $18.32 per week, plus $29.52 for room rent and food in the community per week, and those who live at home spend about $26.37 per week in the community.

The survey shows that the average student spends $5.04 per week for food snacks and beverages; $4.56 per week for gasoline; $2.98 per week for entertainment; $2.43 per week for clothing and interior room decorations, and $2.08 per week for personal care items such as soap, perfume, shaving cream, and so on.

The survey also shows that more than half the money Wilmington College students spend in the community comes from their own job efforts, during the academic year and during summer vacation.

Only about 25 per cent comes from parents and an additional six per cent from other relatives.

"The stereotype of the affluent student living off his parents is not a valid one," Palmer said.

Palmer added that the more than about $1.5 million.

This is due to what economists label the multiplier factor; one dollar spent for goods and services becomes one dollar worth of income to the seller of those goods and services.

The seller, in turn, spends that dollar and the dollar becomes another person's income. This person, in turn, spends the dollar, and so on.

The student money comes into Wilmington from other communities within Ohio, or from other states or countries. Because it is new money to Wilmington, it has this multiplier action. The action stops when, eventually, this money leaves Wilmington in payment for goods or services bought from other areas.

In addition, the college has an annual payroll of about $1.6 million, much of which is spent in Clinton County, and the college purchases local goods and services worth about $2 million each year. Campus visitors also spend money in the community.

"I don't have exact figures," Palmer concluded, "but I would estimate that Wilmington College, counting all the money spent in the community by the College itself, by faculty and staff, by students, by visitors, and taking into account the multiplier factor, is worth between $11 and $12 million a year to Clinton County," he said.

Coal strike still holding

BELLAIRE, Ohio (AP) - Some miners were returning to work early today in southern and eastern Ohio, but officials indicated a majority of the 16,000 coal miners participating in a wildcat strike remained off the job.

A spot check showed at least 2,000 coal miners in scattered parts of the eastern and southern Ohio coal belt returned to their jobs for the first time in nearly two weeks.

At one of the largest mines in the state, miners apparently had not returned to work for the midnight shift. Instead, miners at Southern Ohio Coal Co.'s Meigs County No. 7 mine were to hold a membership meeting, after rejecting a back to work plea by leaders of United Mine Workers District 6. The Meigs No. 7 and No. 4 mines in southeastern Ohio account for an estimated 11,000 miners.

There were reports that most miners in West Virginia had returned to work.

LONDON (AP) - President Carter's first venture into international diplomacy has been a smashing suc-

Carter was ebullient after the conclusion Sunday of his conference with the heads of government of West Germany, France, Britain, Japan, Italy and Canada.

The president was especially pleased over the decision to undertake a detailed study — which Carter said he proposed - of ways to expand the use of nuclear power around the world without also putting the raw materials for nuclear weapons in the hands of more nations.

"It was the most divisive and the most difficult question that we addressed," he said.

The president added that he is aware that agreements are one thing and carrying them out is another. He said the experts who will make the study "will follow up to be sure that our conference has not been an idle

He got a statement calling for elimination of "irregular trade practices and improper conduct in international trade," which U.S. officials said could help put teeth in antibribery legislation currently before the U.S. Congress.

American officials also praised the decision of the seven key industrial nations to commit themselves to

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

Ohio has always had a record of honest elections which will be threatened if Senate Bill 125 is passed in its present form. Three provisions of the bill are the most alarming: election permanent registration, registration and door-to-door registration. We particularly oppose these provisions.

In Fayette County we have traditionally had election day registration with thirty day residency in the county and precinct as the requirement of an elector. Twenty-two counties are non-registration. The remaining counties require registration thirty days prior to the election to qualify as an elector. S.B. 125 elminates the thirty day residency requirement.

S.B. 125 mandates registration for the entire state but registration at the polling place on election day is as bad as no registration at all. Registration is a meaningful deterrent against fraud, but, it must permit a determination as to a person's eligibility to vote prior to election day. Once the ballot is cast, an illegal vote cannot be separated from those which have been legally cast. A valid factor in considering registration for Fayette County was the saving of dollars in ballot costs by knowing in advance of the election the number of registered voters in each precinct. S.B. 125 places all counties in the position of having to guess the number of voters who will come to the polls making it impossible to accurately determine the number of ballots or voting machines necessary to serve the voters. This is a large step backwards.

Permanent registration would create an accumulation of ineligible registrants giving a distorted record of the number of electors qualified to sign petitions and vote, and detrimental to the conduct of fraud-free elections.

Door-to-door registration permits any person to secure registration forms quantity to solicit registration. Would these cards, provided at taxpayer expense, be properly completed and returned for recording? The act of registration should be conducted between the citizen and a responsible election official.

S.B. 125 is a step backwards for honest and efficient elections and a potentially expensive burden for the taxpayer and local government. We oppose passage of S.B. 125 in its present been restricted since 1972 because of high water and because the shore's breakwall is little more than a jumbled pile of concrete slabs. In 1974, a half mile of beach to the north that used to belong to Port Clinton fisheries was opened to public swimming. That didn't help much because it was covered with brush and large trees.

Even after removal of 80 trees last year, roots still sneak through the sand to stab unwary toes and snatch at sandals. It's also a long walk from parking, though a shuttle service helps ease that problem.

But Donich says the lake is lower now than it has been, adding: "I'm only hoping it'll stay down. At this point we're working like it will."

Beach equipment removed to avoid sand damage would have to be returned, and "it would take a while to get things back together again," Donich says. "But we're trying to get a head start on some of the things now."

The Army Corps of Engineers predicts this year's highest level, expected in mid-June, will be a foot lower than that of last year. The corps says the current level is only a bit above normal.

And the corps' Detroit prognostication chief, Ron Wilshaw, says it may mean the lake is on the down side of a lowering trend.

"If the trend continues, I'd be inclined to say that in three years we'd be in the low-water period," Wilshaw

Cold air sweeps parts of north

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A cold front and cold air behind it produced scattered rainshowers, cool temperatures and snow flurries in parts of the north and mid-Atlantic states, and one inch of snow was reported today in Rochester, N.Y.

The cold front began pushing across the mid-Atlantic coast states Sunday afternoon, bringing high winds and causing gusts of up to 58 miles an hour in Washington, D.C.

Overnight temperatures dipped into the low-and-mid-40s along the Atlantic coast and into the 30s in the Appalachians. Frost and freeze warnings were out from the upper Great Lakes through the northeastern Ohio Valley and across West Virginia and western New York.

Thunderstorms, although decreasing in intensity, rumbled from the southern Plains to the south Atlantic coast. Sunday night, two tornados were reported in Florida. One hit a travel trailer in Sebastian State Park, 34 miles south of Melborne. The second damaged a barn 21 miles east of Clewiston. A midafternoon tornado damaged trees and fences near Miami and large hail was reported during the evening in west-central Texas and South Carolina.

A few showers and thundershowers were reported over Kansas, Nebraska and South Dakota. Scattered showers and isolated thundershowers continued over much of California and Nevada but were widely scattered in northern Idaho and Montana. A flash flood watch continued for the mountains and adjacent coastal and desert areas of southern California.

A tornado Sunday afternoon in Long Beach, Calif., toppled trees, scattered roof tiles and broke windows. Nearly two inches of rain fell in southern California, making this month the wettest May there in 56 years.

Skies this morning were clear over the northern half of the Mississippi and the western Ohio valleys, and in the upper Great Lakes region. It was also clear over much of the central and southern Rockies.

"This sum represents a 10.3 per cent increase over last year's campaign total," Hollern said.

Contributions will be used to fund programs in pulmonary disease research and education to fight respiratory diseases such as emphysema and asthma.

WASHINGTON REPORT

From WILLIAM H. HARSHAMMI Representative To Congress 6th District, Ohio

"No private enterprise would ever consider for one minute" running the mail system the way it now operates.

Those are not my words, although I have on a number of occasions made essentially the same statement. In fact, given the seven years Americans have suffered under the U.S. Postal Service, just about anyone with the slightest knowledge of business might have expressed the very same sentiments.

However, the latest in a long line of people to question, if not openly attack, the management policies of the Postal Service is no less than Gaylord Freeman, the head of a special congressional commission that studied the Postal Service.

Mr. Freeman was giving his assessment of the postal mess to a Senate subcommittee, and if what he had to say was not shocking, it was certainly discouraging.

Too much has been made public during the history of the quasi-governmental Postal Service for Americans to be shocked now at a report that says the organization is poorly run. Besides, the man in the street has lived with the problem; he has endured it on a first-hand basis.

What is discouraging about the latest report on the Postal Service is that after 26 days of public hearings, chronicled in five volumes, the story is essentially the same — service has declined while postal rates have escalated.

And the recommendations are for more of the same. A majority of the commission suggests that delivery of mail be reduced from six to five days a week, with Saturday delivery most likely to be eliminated.

This latest proposal to reduce service was justified by the commission as an alternative to an increase in postal costs and rates. Thus, postal patrons are being asked to make a further sacrifice in service, even though the present level of service provided them is grossly inadequate.

Moreover, should five-day mail delivery become a reality, postal officials predict that the cost of a 13-cent stamp will still probably jump to 22 cents by 1985. Already, Postmaster General Benjamin Bailer is talking about raising the rate to 16 cents next year.

In fact, the savings from lopping off a day of mail delivery amounts to less than one cent per letter in postal costs. And regardless of the savings, greater federal subsidies will still be requested.

The commission proposes that the existing fixed annual subsidy of $920 million be allowed to rise automatically with expenses, It also recommends that an additional $624 million be provided to eliminate the present operating debt.

Even the surplus recorded for the 12-month period ending in March, must be viewed with the realization that a huge subsidy was part of that surplus.

Back in 1970, when the Postal Service replaced the Post Office Department, predictions were that rates would be cheaper, postal deficits would be eliminated, rural delivery would be assured, small post offices would continue, and costs would be cut.

Seven years later, the House Post

Seven years later, the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee is preparing to hold hearings on a report showing that postal costs are going up, service is going down, and larger subsidies will be needed to maintain even reduced services. That is a sorry record by any yardstick!

Little wonder that private postal operations are challenging the Postal Service with more efficient service and at cheaper rates. Demands for private competition with the Postal Service's first class mail service are growing.

In January, the President's Council on Wage and Price Stability issued a report which stated that permitting competition to the Postal Service's first class service probably would result in significant benefits to the economy and to the mail user.

With release of the report from the Commission on Postal Service, it is becoming increasingly apparent that greater congressional control over postal operations is necessary, if not imminent.

Left to its own devices, the U.S. Postal Service has "mismanaged" its way into chronic deficits that must be financed by the taxpayers, who are still waiting for the improved service promised them and for which they already are paying an extravagant

American charged in skyjack attempt

TOKYO (AP) — A 25-year-old American was charged with attempted hijacking today after trying to force the pilot of a Northwest Airlines jumbo jet with 261 persons aboard to fly him to

The hijacker, Bruce Trayer, held a razor to the throat of a Japanese stewardess until cabin attendant William Vanheuven hit him on the head with the butt of a fire axe. The hijacking attempt lasted about 10 minutes

Trayer told Japanese police he was from Prairie du Chien, Wis., and decided to go to Moscow on the spur of the moment. He said he had heard about the Soviet capital from his father, a police spokesman said.

The hijacking occurred Sunday about an hour after the jetliner took off from Tokyo for Honolulu. The pilot, Capt. Homer Sutter of Minneapolis, radioed a hijacking was under way and requested directions for a flight to Moscow.

About 10 minutes later, the pilot reported the hijacker had been subdued and the plane was returning to Tokyo because the hijacker was injured.

Trayer was conscious and shouting, with a bandage on his head, when the Japanese police removed him from the plane. He was treated at a hospital, and the doctors said his injuries should be healed in about two weeks. The police took him away for investigation.

The flight took off again for Honolulu early Monday with all but three of the original passengers and a new crew on board. Capt. Sutter and his crew remained in Tokyo to assist in the police investigation.

Trayer told police he was drafted by the U.S. Army in 1971, discharged in 1973 and worked for a cement company until he quit last December, a police spokesman said.

When the plane landed in Honolulu, one of the passengers who witnessed the incident said Trayer was subdued after the captain told him to take his hands off a stewardess.

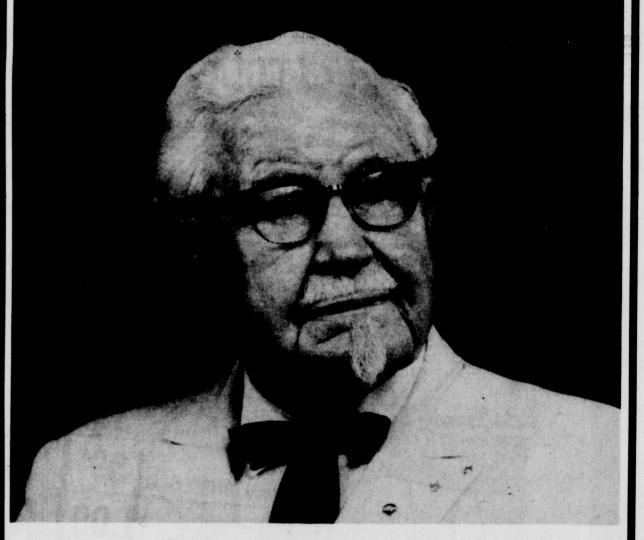

After Trayer lowered his hands, Vanheuven struck him with the butt of the fire axe, said U.S. Army Col. Roland Sevigny.

Two suspects arrested

Deputies recover stolen auto

Fayette County Sheriff Donald L. Thompson reported that deputies recovered a stolen auto and arrested two suspects Sunday.

Deputy Robert A. Russell reportedly spotted the auto, which is believed to have been stolen from Columbus April 30, near the intersection of I-71 and U.S. 35 and stopped the vehicle for a traffic check. A computer check verified that the vehicle was stolen.

There were three suspects in the vehicle at the time of the traffic check, but one was a hitchhiker, who was released on the authority of the Columbus Police Department. The other two suspects were arrested.

Output per manhour increases

NEW YORK (AP) - The fact that output per manhour of Americans is rising again won't create the headlines that might come from the economic summit meeting in London, but it is probably more significant.

A rise in output per manhour, or productivity, undercuts inflation. And is there any economic news that is more welcome and meaningful than that? Hardly.

The summit is made up of good intentions, negotiations, agreements and goals. Productivity is what already has been accomplished. And based on the latest figures those accomplishments have been great.

Whereas the long-term growth in productivity, based on measurements since World War II, has been about 2.3 per cent a year, the increase during the first quarter of 1977 was at a 3.2 per cent annual rate.

Equally encouraging, measurement of the efficiency with which we utilize our labor, resources, plant, equipment and capital surged over the rate achieved in the previous quarter, the final one of 1976.

Many economists would like to see the first-quarter rate exceeded in subsequent quarters, because then it would demonstrate conclusively that there is vitality left in the American system. But 3.2 really isn't bad.

It most certainly will be the most important counterforce to the inflationary thrust of economic activity, because rising productivity means we are getting our products onto the market at a lower cost.

It doesn't mean we are slaving all the harder to turn out more widgets per worker. It does mean that we are working smarter - we are employing our skills, our factory space, our technology, our brains, our money.

Seldom do we see any figures on the inflationary impact of using these ingredients inefficiently, but it is in that inefficiency that inflation is born and nourished.

Unfortunately, we have never quite learned to maintain peak efficiency for very long. Sooner or later we become sloppy in the employment of our various resources. Up go prices, down goes economic activity.

It is at the low points in economic activity that we manage to get ourselves together and once again utilize our resources in a more efficient manner.

Employment is pared, frills are eliminated, expense accounts are scrutinized, unproductive projects and products are cut, inefficient factories are closed. The company becomes lean; it gets into shape.

Having demonstrated its efficiency, the rewards soon begin to accumulate. Profits improve. But the new sense of security begins to soften the discipline and dedication

Gradually the hard-won efficiency is lost again. We seek more than we produce. We seek to be served. And prices rise

After having bounced along in this cycle since the founding of the country. it would seem about time to come up with some answers

But until we do, we can take some comfort - better watch it, not too much from the realization that increasing productivity is right now working to undermine some of those inflationary pressures.

Pirates figure to get better, Braves figure to get worse

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer

You think things can't get any worse for the Atlanta Braves? Check the schedule

Saddled with a 14-game losing streak second longest in the National League since 1963 — following Sunday's 6-3 loss to the Chicago Cubs, the injuryriddled Braves invade Pittsburgh tonight for a four-game series with the Pirates. The Pirates are merely the hottest team in baseball - hotter than the Los Angeles Dodgers - with eight victories in a row and 13 in their last 14 outings.

"One pitcher giving us a good game and we can snap it," says Braves Marager Dave Bristol, who suffered through a 13-game skid right around this time a year ago.

Unfortunately, Bristol's pitching rotation in Pittsburgh starts off with Chopper Collins, making his first major league start, then lists Buzz Capra, Phil Niekro and Max Leon. The four have a combined record of 0-9.

"What am I supposed to do, shock them?" said Bristol. "Gimmicks and tricks are not the answer to it. We are going up against teams who are using their best players. We'd like to use our best, but unfortunately we can't. We have too many injuries. The guys who are playing are giving their best, so what more can you ask?' The Braves hung in there for two innings Sunday behind Leon, who was making his first start since 1975, before Bobby Murcer's two-run triple keyed a four-run Chicago third inning. It marks the longest losing streak for the Braves since they moved from Milwaukee to Atlanta in 1966.

In other NL action, the Pirates rallied to beat the Cincinnati Reds 6-4, the St. Louis Cardinals edged the Houston Astros 2-1 and the San Francisco Giants swept a doubleheader from the New York Mets 4-2 and 10-0. The Montreal Expos were rained out of a doubleheader with the Padres in San Diego while the Philadelphia Phillies had a single game with the Dodgers in LA put off by an unusual spring shower.

Pirates 6, Reds 4 Dave Parker, leading the majors with a .421 batting average, rapped a tie-breaking two-run double in the seventh inning to cap a three-run rally. Trailing 4-3, the Pirates tied the game against Fred Norman on Rennie Stennett's single, Norman's wild throw on Phil Garner's bunt, a walk to Frank Tayeras and pinch hitter Fernando Gonzalez' infield hit.

Cardinals 2, Astros 1

RBI singles by Bake McBride and Keith Hernandez gave St. Louis two runs in the third inning and that was enough behind the pitching of John D'Acquisto, winner Buddy Schultz and Clay Carroll. The run-scoring hits followed Jerry Mumphrey's leadoff triple and propelled the Cards from behind after Houston scored in the opening inning on doubles by Enos Cabell and Willie Crawford.

Giants 4-10, Mets 2-0 John Curtis, making his first start of the season, pitched two-hit baseball in a rain-shortened second game. Curtis also contributed three hits to a 12-hit attack against Jon Matlack.

In the opener, San Francisco backed Jim Barr with 12 hits, including three by Willie McCovey and run-scoring hits by Marc Hill and Terry Whitfield in a tie-breaking fourth inning.

Bucs whip Cincinnati again

Pirates are hot, Reds are not

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Dave Parker and the Pittsburgh Pirates are certainly hot. The Cincinnati Reds are certainly not.

"You have to be enthusiastic about this club," Parker said Sunday after his two-run double lifted the Pirates to a 6-4 victory over the Reds and raised his batting average to .422 - tops in the

A three-game sweep of the Reds left Pittsburgh with eight straight wins, 13 in 14 games, and a 11/2-game lead in the National League East.

"Our personnel has improved, and we have the same winning attitude we've had for years," Parker said in the noisy Pirate lockerroom.

Meanwhile, Reds' Manager Sparky Anderson sat in his office, grimly eating a hot dog and trying to swallow the fact that his team was 11 games behind Los Angeles in the NL West.

"I don't feel any different than I always feel," Anderson said after the Reds fell to 10-15 on the season with their fourth straight loss.

"Life is tough," he added.
"I know that, but it doesn't stop me from living. You can't just die because things aren't going your way.'

"We're not playing very well. It's that simple," he said.

"Certain games we should have won we lost. Other times we just got beat. So the simple fact is we're just not playing like we're supposed to. We have to get it together.

"We're not playing like the Cincinnati Reds," echoed Pete Rose, who had a 20-game batting streak halted with an 0-4 afternoon.

The longest batting streak in the majors - 19 games - now belongs to the 6-foot-6 Parker, a Cincinnati native.

"I get needled quite a bit when I go back to Cincinnati in the winter," said Parker. "The Reds have dominated us for quite a while."

The Reds' swept the Pirates in the 1975 playoffs, and Cincinnati stole 11 bases in 11 tries in that series.

In the weekend set here, Pittsburgh stole seven bases in 10 tries. That gives the Pirates a league leading total of 51 thefts, 44 more than they had at this stage last season.

76ers beat Rockets

PHILADELPHIA Philadelphia 76ers Coach Gene Shue almost choked on a soft drink when he heard that Doug Collins was still shooting in the dressing room - with his mouth, not the ball.

"Right now our thoughts are on a sweep," said Collins, who shoots quick and talks in machine-gun style. "We're trying to do it in four," he Shue gulped at what coaches consider heresay-feeding the opposition propaganda. He could just see the Houston Rockets reacting to Collins' remark.

"Sweep?" asked Shue. "I'm worried only about the third game. You all know the respect I have for Houston. When they get hot, I haven't seen any team like them."

Three times Sunday the Rockets crawled back from deficits to look the Sixers in the eye. And three times Philadelphia left them running on a treadmill. Philadelphia won 106-97 and took a 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven National Basketball Association semifinal series.

Collins, who scored 20 points, labeled the 76ers a team of spurts, both good and bad. On the good side they scored 14 straight points in the first period and went on to build a 57-45 halftime lead. When the Rockets tied it 73-73 in the third, the Sixers ran off seven in a row for some breathing room. And when the Rockets battled back to within three, Shue's troops outscored them 14-6 early in the fourth quarter to wran

Gifford ties school record

OXFORD, Ohio - Dan Gifford of Miami Trace scored 18 points for the Panthers at the Miami University

Relays last weekend. Gifford won the high jump competition, beating the top-ranked state contender in the process. Gifford tried his own school record by winning the event with a leap of 6-feet-6. Gifford was also second in the triple jump with a leap of 40 feet, four inches. Also, Brian Zurface scored a point as he finished sixth of 32 entrants with a time of 52.7 seconds in the 440-yard Ralph Fast broke his personal best in the discus with a toss of 144'10" and the two mile relay team of Frank Dunn, Glen Cobb, Bill Hanners and Ken Ward tied their school record set last week at 8:32.7.

The performance by Gifford gives him a better position for a shot at the state track meet.

Seattle Slew not the best?

LOUISVILLE (AP) - It's Monday, two days after the 103rd Kentucky Derby - now will the "Knock Down Seattle Slew Club" please come to order?

Let's hear first from the chairman, the one-time great stakes rider and now leading TV commentator, Eddie

"I'm still not convinced he is a super horse. He is only the best of an ordinary

Now a word from some of the beaten contenders: "Everyone has said how easy Seattle Slew could run but that boy, Run Dusty Run, tore him up," said trainer Smiley Adams, whose Run Dusty Run finished a fast-closing second.

"Impressive but not awesome," said Lou Rondinello, trainer of third-placed Sanhedrin. "He can be beaten.

Seattle Slew simply doesn't fit all the earmarks of equine super stardom. Even his name lacks an historic ring a combination of the major city nearest Mickey Taylor's logging business in the Washington's remote Yakima Indian Reservation, and the Florida swamp land familiar to the veterinarian who discovered him, Dr. Jim Hill.

Now the severest critics give him a chance to add the 11-16 mile Preakness May 21, a race 3-16ths shorter than the Derby, but they are throwing up smoke signals questioning his ability to persevere over the gruelling 11/2 mile Belmont Stakes three weeks later.

Look how he was losing ground to his stretch-running rivals in the Flamingo, Wood and even the Derby, they warn. He has an inclination to fade in the final stages of a longer race. So how can be win a race like the Belmont?

'Cruguet should have rated his horse in the Flamingo," said Arcaro. "It isn't smart to let a horse relax at the finish." "My horse is a free-running horse, I let him run," Cruguet snapped back. "I do not force my horse when I can save

The "Knock Down Seattle Slew Club" was quick to seize on this facet and the relatively slow time, 2:021-5, compared with Secretariat's 1:592-5.

Time is immaterial. Strategy and track conditions determine it. The fact that pursuers were gaining is equally futile reasoning. Closeness counts only in horseshoes. The important thing is winning Seattle Slew is a winning horse. He has never looked at another rump crossing the finish line.

Maybe he isn't one of the greatest. Maybe he is. Today he is racing's champion. He answered every challenge in the Derby. He got a bumbling start, he almost got boxed in, he saw another horse lead him for a half a mile and then ran that horse, For The Moment, into the ground. He won winging. What else can you ask?

Kelly, Thomas helped by high authority

Praise the Lord and pass the bat

By HAL BOCK

AP Sports Writer

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn won't like this, but there seems to be a higher authority at work in the American League these days.

A'week ago, after batting .087 for the month of April, Pat Kelly said a little prayer. Since then, he's had 10 hits in 20 swings, five of them home runs including a grand slam Sunday that carried the Baltimore Orioles to a 6-4 victory over the Seattle Mariners.

Dan Thomas sat out Milwaukee losses Friday night and Saturday, observing the sabbath as usual according to the rules of his faith, the Worldwide Church of God. He returned to action Sunday and smacked a tworun homer, helping the Brewers defeat Detroit 7-4.

Praise the Lord and pass the bat. Kelly, acquired from the White Sox over the winter, suffered through a dreadful first month in Baltimore, managing only two singles in his first 23 at bats.

But when Ken Singleton suffered an eye infection, he got a chance to get back in the lineup last Sunday. In the 10th inning of that game against California Kelly asked for a little help

"I said, 'Lord, it would be nice if I could win it with a dinger," recalled Kelly. And he did just that.
That started a red-hot, 11-RBI week for Kelly and he capped it with Sunday's slam against the Mariners.

Thomas, whose playing appearances are arranged around the requirements of his religion, believes the schedule has helped his production.

Robin Yount contributed two singles and a double to the Milwaukee attack and drove in three runs.

Elsewhere Sunday, Minnesota nipped Toronto 5-4, Boston edged Minnesota California 4-3, New York battered Oakland 10-5, Chicago ripped Cleveland 8-3 and Texas downed Kansas City 5-2.

Seattle Slew slays Derby, eyes Preakness

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Billy Turner's kid glove treatment of Kentucky Derby winner Seattle Slew may pay off in the Triple Crown and with more riches for the humble trainer and the attractive young couple who own the unbeaten colt.

Next test in the carefully-planned course for Seattle Slew is the Preakness Stakes at Pimlico May 21, the second leg of the Triple Crown of thoroughbred racing, where the Bold Reasoning colt will seek his eighth straight victory and fourth in a row this

"He's still learning," the 37-year-old Turner said Sunday morning, the day after Seattle Slew posted a 134-length victory in the 103rd Derby at Churchill Downs. "The race showed two things. That he doesn't have to be a frontrunner to win and he can overcome

It was a reference to the colt's slow, stumbling start and the tight traffic jam he got out of on the clubhouse turn in the 11/4-mile classic which had a gross purse of $267,200. The winner's share was $214,700.

Turner, fired eight years ago as a head trainer for another stable, has been criticized for racing the colt so sparingly and the lack of workouts. Seattle Slew first went to the races last year on Sept. 20, almost six months after most of his 14 Derby rivals had started competition.

"He was undertrained for the Derby," Turner said before the colt flew CINCINNATI (AP) - Striking Cincinnati teachers meet tonight to ratify or reject a compromise salary offer that could end the longest school strike in the city's history.

A tentative contract agreement was announced late Sunday night by Roger Stephens, president of the AFL-CIO-aligned Cincinnati Federation of Teachers.

The breakthrough came as the Board of Education threatened "drastic steps" to end the three-week-old public school walkout. The strike caused absenteeism up to 50 per cent among the 3,100 teachers and 65,000 students. Stephens, cheered by a large crowd of teachers during the announcement,

Board president Henry Kasson welcomed the development. "After many month we have reached an agreement both sides feel they can live with," he said.

Stephens said terms of the contract would not be released until after the ratification vote. The teachers were seeking a raise between seven and nine per cent, while the board was offering six, with another three per cent hike contingent on passage of a June 14 tax
